The SEI has opened the nomination period for the Linda M. Northrop Software Architecture Award. This honor recognizes an individual or team that has used software architecture to significantly improve practices or outcomes, or both, in an organization or in the software-development community. The award will be presented at the 2018 Software Engineering Institute Software Architecture Technology User Network (SATURN) Conference, which will convene May 7-10, 2018, in Plano, Texas.
